On February 1st, 2016, Drexel EMS sponsored an American Red Cross blood drive on campus in North Hall MPR. All 47 donors appointment spots were filled! The drive was held in honor of the first day of heart health month which is every February. The goal of the drive was to inspire the Drexel community to give back and help make a difference they could truly help save lives. By donating blood, there are numerous ways that each donation can be used to improve the life of someone in need. The drive was very successful with 31 total units collected! This exceeded our personal goal for the day as well as the drive collection goal for the American Red Cross. Drexel EMS thanks everyone who came out to donate or came to show their support. The drive would not have been successful without the support of the Drexel community. We are sincerely grateful for all of your efforts!
